Comments Regarding Pricing Strategy
This country is still hit with a pandemic and stay at home orders. A Lot of people are working from home and a major amount of people are Unemployed. The interest rate is at an all time low and there is buyers but very limited inventory. There were sufficient comps in the subject area to comp the subject to. There are still REO and short sales in this county, but not currently the drive of market pricing at this time. There is currently a shortage of listing as they sell very fast right now. With interest rates at an all time low, there is more buyers than sellers. We are under a current pandemic in this country and people are working from home and kids are distant learning from home. These comps are close to the subject in area and with adjustments to the amenities. Went out 1 mile and back 12 months to find comps
