Comments Regarding Pricing Strategy
The subject's suggested value is based heavily on the most recent sold comps, as well as the current comps on the market. The subject's current sale price, looks to be below market value, based on the current value of similar sold comps, as well as the few list comps available. The subject has good marketability, due to it's location and price range. If the subject were to be updated, it would have very good marketability. .
